CZOLGOSZ IS READY TO DIE

Does Not Want To Be Bothered with More Religious Advice

HE IS NERVED UP

Says He Deserves His Fate, and Expected It When He Shot McKinley.

AVOID SUNDAY WORK

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Czolgosz, the assassin of McKinley, says he is ready for the fatal electric chair. The warden had an interview with him this morning in which he expressed himself as satisfied with the treatment accorded him in the prison. He said he deserved to die and he knew before he shot the president he would have to die. He doesn't want to be bothered with any religious consolation and asked the warden not to admit any priest or preacher.

"Auburn, Oct. 26.—Czolgosz's brother Waldeck was admitted to the prison today. The visit has given rise to a rumor that the murderer's relatives will claim his remains after the electrocution.

Reason for Fixing on Tuesday

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Warden Mead has selected Tuesday for the execution of Czolgosz, so that final arrangements may be made on Monday. In doing this he is following the general custom in the state prisons relative to electrocutions. It does away with the necessity of making final arrangements on Sunday.

The sentence of the court was that the execution of Czolgosz should take place during the week commencing Oct. 28, leaving to the warden of the prison full power to select the day of the week in which to carry out the mandates of the law. This latitude is given the warden to secure secrecy as to the time of execution and to guard against delay from accident, such as in 1893, caused by a delay of an hour in an execution after the condemned man had been taken into the death house at Auburn penitentiary.

The witnesses will assemble at the prison at 6:30 o'clock on Tuesday morning. There have been twenty-six invitations issued and they are nontransferable. Each witness must present his invitation to the warden of the prison and if he is not identified to the satisfaction of the warden as being the man to whom it was issued, he will not be admitted.

Priest Talks with Czolgosz.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Leon Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley, was visited in his cell in the Auburn prison by the Rev. Hyacinth Fudzinski of Buffalo. The priest spent an hour with the assassin. When asked if Czolgosz had renounced atheism and embraced Christianity, he replied: "He is a Christian. He was born a Christian, and, although he may have renounced Christianity, he is a Christian, I think. This is all I will say."

SURVEYING AN OLD GRADE
Men Working on the Old Chicago and Superior Line at Whitewater

Whitewater, Wis., Oct. 26.—A party of surveyors has been working on the old Chicago and Superior grade, between here and Elkhorn, which was graded forty-four years ago. The foreman of the party, Mr. Sheldon, said the work was merely preliminary and that he did not wish to make public the plans at present.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Lieut. Russell Hazzard, who was with Funston when Aguinaldo was captured, recently burglarized an insurgent camp in the Philippines and stole an American deserter. As a punishment he has been recommended by Chaffee for the Congressional medal honor.

NO MORE SOLDIERS TO PHILIPPINES; FORCE ON ISLANDS NOW IS AMPLE

President Decides That Troops There Now Can Handle Situation—No More Arrests Than Usual.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—An important conference was held at the White House today between the President and Secretary of War Root. The future of the Philippines and Cuba was the subject of their discussion. They were together several hours after the regular meeting of the cabinet, the first, by the way, at which the President has had an opportunity to meet all of his cabinet officers together.

As a result of this extended conference between the president and the secretary of war, it has been decided that the situation in the Philippines is not such as to demand an increase of the American forces in the archipelago. Instead of an increase a reduction of forces has been decided upon. During the next four or five months troops will be sent out to take the place of those whose terms of enlistment have expired, but the net reduction by the first of March is now estimated at about 7,000 men.

There are now in the Philippines 42,000 troops all told, and according to the present plans that force will be brought down to about 35,000. This decision is an answer to the reports which have been put in circulation to the effect that the situation in the Philippines is very much worse than the public has been led to believe.

Both the President and Secretary Root are in receipt of adequate information concerning the situation in the archipelago. Their reports show while there is just now more unrest than usual, due in large measure to the false reports which have been set in circulation concerning the cause of the killing of President McKinley, this unfavorable symptom may be expected to pass quickly away.

Don C. Holloway, one of Janesville's students at the University of Wisconsin, is home for over Sunday.

JUDGES RELEASE ROBERT E. BURKE

Fresh Evidence, However, Is Immediately Presented to Grand Jury for Another Arrest.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Robert E. Burke, indicted twenty days ago for the embezzlement of $23,000 as Chicago's oil inspector, was yesterday freed by three judges, whose decision on a habeas corpus decision renders him immune from prosecution under these particular indictments.

Less than an hour after Burke had heard the words "discharged," with which Judge Dunne concluded the reading of the opinion, the new grand jury was considering evidence which may lead to other indictments against Burke, framed, in such a way that the state's attorney may circumvent the release of the defendant through a similar process as succeeded yesterday.

Even before the decision had been rendered "service men" from State's Attorney Deneen's office had been sent over the city with subpoenas for Comptroller McGann and G. W. Stahl, treasurer of the Standard Oil Company.

WEST HAS TAKEN LEAD IN THE WORK

An Appeal to Bankers and G. A. R. Men to Help Raise the Funds for McKinley Memorial.

Milwaukee, Oct. 26.—Five hundred Wisconsin bankers are being formally requested to assist in the collection of funds for the McKinley national memorial. The letter which Henry C. Payne is sending to them calls attention to the cause and refers to the letter which the bankers for assistance to the action of the American Bankers' Association in the Milwaukee convention, urging the cooperation of all members in raising money for a McKinley memorial. The bankers are asked to place subscription blanks upon their counters, to receive subscriptions and to remit the same to Mr. Payne.

Mr. Payne intends to send letters to the Wisconsin G. A. R. posts. A committee of at least 250 to push the work in their several counties will soon be appointed. Myron T. Herrick, treasurer of the association, states in a letter to Mr. Payne, that the West has taken the lead in the work.

STUDENTS OBJECT TO YELLOW STORIES

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 26.—The students of Lawrence university are up in arms over the reports published in outside papers concerning their recent escapades. The college correspondents have been threatened with violence so pronounced is the feeling.

A mass meeting attend by more than 200 students was held at Phoenix Hall last night to take action. Speeches were made by several students, all of whom said that for several years they had been in favor of punishing the reporters, the general sentiment being in favor of tar and feathers should there be any further offenses.

The chairman was instructed to appoint a committee of three whose duty it will be to see that no news is hereafter sent out to the newspapers that will be derogatory to either the students or the university.

Workmen Hurt in Explosion.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 26.—By the explosion of gas in the dust catcher of furnace No. 1 of the Carrie furnaces of the Carnegie Steel company, at Rankin, Pa., early this morning, four men were badly injured. Their names: John McAllister, Harry Ewy, Daniel McCarthy, John McCarish.

Weyler Will Be Premier.

Madrid, Oct. 26.—Senor Sagasta, the premier, had an audience of the queen regent. It is reported that he, acting under the advice of his doctors, will go to a milder climate for the winter. General Weyler, minister of war, assuming the premiership in his absence.

South Hampton, Oct. 26.—Carnegie Sailed for America today.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Admiral Dewey this morning authorized a denial of the report that he had resigned the presidency of the Metropolitan club because the members criticized his rulings favoring Schley.

Bruxelles, Belgium, Oct. 26.—A factory was destroyed here today by a dynamite bomb exploded by an anarchist workmen. The anarchists escaped.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—Governor Yates of Illinois, in an interview here this morning approved Roosevelt's action in inviting Booker Washington to dine with him and said that he would do the same thing if Washington should visit Yates at his home city.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26.—A North American's dispatch from London says: "Croker has cabled personal friends in London that Tammany's success is a cinch."

Pietermaritzburg, Natal, Oct. 26.—Governor Milner of the Orange River colony and Transvaal in a speech here today urged his hearers to have patience in waiting for the war to come to a close.

Washington, Oct. 26.—General Wade, commanding the department of Southern Luzon, has issued orders forbidding the use in official communications of Spanish words that have an English equivalent.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 26.—Caleb Powers' fate will probably be in the jury's hands this afternoon. Today, was devoted to the closing arguments.

Both the President and Secretary Root are in receipt of adequate information concerning the situation in the archipelago. Their reports show while there is just now more unrest than usual, due in large measure to the false reports which have been set in circulation concerning the cause of the killing of President McKinley, this unfavorable symptom may be expected to pass quickly away.

Don C. Holloway, one of Janesville's students at the University of Wisconsin, is home for over Sunday.

GOOD SHOWING OF BADGER BANKS; ASSETS REACH OVER $100,000,000

Highwater Mark in National Banking Business Shows the Prosperity of the People—Increase of Eight Million in the Individual Deposits.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The aggregate assets of the national banks of Wisconsin amount to more than $100,000,000. This is a remarkable showing, not only as an illustration of the importance of the national banking system in the state, but also because it presents in compendious form some striking figures in regard to the aggregate wealth of the people of Wisconsin.

Within the year past there have been organized six new national banks in the state, the number now being ninety-four and the increase in the aggregate assets of the national banks during that period amounts to more than $100,000,000.

This is the high water mark of the national banking business in the state, and it is illustrative of the marked growth in accumulated wealth and prosperity among her people.

The reports covering the national banks of Wisconsin outside of Milwaukee up to the close of business September 30 shows an increase of

AMERICA LEADS IN THE METAL LIST

GEN. KING WILL GO TO ST. JOHN'S

Director of the U. S. Mint Reports the Output of Gold and Silver.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—Director Roberts of the mint has prepared a statement showing the production of the precious metals for the calendar year of 1900. The production of gold in the world was 12,457,287 ounces of the value of $257,514,700, a loss in value of $49,070,200 from 1899. The loss was mainly in the Transvaal field, South Africa, and due to the war. The production of South Africa in 1899 was of the value of $75,277,100 and in 1900 $9,671,000. The principal gains were $8,118,000 in the United States and $6,600,000 in Canada. The United States again heads the list. In the United States the principal gains were by Alaska, Arizona, Colorado and Utah.

The silver output of the world amounted to 178,796,796 fine ounces. The United States again leads all other producers, with a slight excess over Mexico. There was an important advance in the price of silver during the year, the price ranging from 59.1 cents an ounce in January to 68.3 cents in the last month of the year.

HUNTING LICENSES IN GREAT DEMAND

ARE NOW ALL PAID

Many Non-Residents Are Getting Permits to Kill Deer When the Season Opens.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—(Special)

Four hundred dollars was paid to State Game Warden Overbeck yesterday for licenses by hunters from other states who are coming into Wisconsin after game, the greater part being for deer licenses, which cost $25 each. The receipts for non-resident licenses this year promise to be double what they were last.

Miles Griswold of Waukesha and Frank Clayton of Pewaukee are the first arrests this fall for killing deer out of season. They were arrested at Penokee Gap, on the Wisconsin Central in Ashland county, Wednesday, by Deputy Game Wardens Gerhardt and Briggs, pleaded guilty when taken to court and paid fines of $50 and costs each.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

South Hampton, Oct. 26.—Carnegie Sailed for America today.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Admiral Dewey this morning authorized a denial of the report that he had resigned the presidency of the Metropolitan club because the members criticized his rulings favoring Schley.

WILL MEET TO TALK OVER RECIPROCITY

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF MANUFACTURERS WILL BE HELD IN WASHINGTON NOVEMBER 19.

Philadelphia, Oct. 26.—A national convention for the discussion of commercial reciprocity will be held in Washington, D. C., beginning on Tuesday morning, November 19th, and continuing for three days. This convention will be composed exclusively of manufacturers properly accredited as delegates by trade and commercial organizations, and its deliberations will be confined to commercial reciprocity in its bearing upon the industries of this country and its influence upon our export trade. Those who desire to attend this convention and participate in its discussions should seek appointment as delegates from organizations with which they are allied, under the conditions set forth in this circular.

This convention is to be held in pursuance of action taken at the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers in Detroit in June, 1901, and subsequent action by the executive committee of that association.

RED HOT STRUGGLE AT MADISON TODAY

THE BADGERS AND JAYHAWKERS ARE CONTESTING FOR SUPREMACY ON THE GRIDIRON.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—(Special)

The Badgers and the Jayhawkers are struggling for supremacy on the gridiron, at Camp Randall this afternoon, and while the victory is expected to go to Wisconsin, the visitors are an unknown quantity, with a high record in the Trans-Mississippi college league and have but one defeat this season, their first game, with Ottawa, and that was played before the Kansans were organized.

Wisconsin had the advantage in weight, with an average of 175 pounds, against the Kansans' 168.

The latter have been coached by John Outland, a former crack Pennsylvania player; they brought 18 players along, and are prepared to put up the best game they are capable of, though they are handicapped by the loss of their 205 pound left guard.

The game was called at 3 o'clock. The line-up is:

WISCONSIN POSITION.....KANSAS POSITION.....

Lorin.....L.....Dodge

Haunerson.....L.....Brumage

Skow.....R.....Horn

Schreiber.....R.....Louthan

Curts.....R.....Flent

Dann.....R.....Noflinger

Marshall.....L.....Elder

Cochens.....L.....Burd

Larson.....L.....Allen

Driver.....L.....Jeskinson

Coach Phil King and Assistant Manager Vogel left for Minneapolis last evening to get a line on the Gophers in the Minnesota-Iowa game.

WAUSAU LOVER KILLS HIS GIRL

JACOB SCHAMBERGER, 20 YEARS OLD, SHOOTS SWEETHEART, AND TALK OF LYNNING IS HEARD.

Wausau, Wis., Oct. 26.—Jacob Schamberger, 20 years old, yesterday afternoon shot and killed Ida Andreki, his sweetheart. He used a shotgun. Schamberger claims it was accidental, although neighbors claim it was the result of a quarrel. The girl was nineteen years of age. Schamberger was arrested and is held awaiting an investigation. There was much excitement in the neighborhood of the shooting and threats of lynching were made.

WOMAN'S FOREIGN MISSION SOCIETY

An Enjoyable Meeting Was Held at the Presbyterian Church Last Evening.

An enjoyable meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Presbyterian church was held last evening at six o'clock. Supper was served in the basement dining hall and the repast was a most appetizing one which was enjoyed by about fifty ladies, members of the society. After supper and its pleasant social hour, an adjournment was taken to the church parlors where the evening's program was given, Mrs. A. A. Jackson presiding.

The subject for the meeting was "Forecast and Rally," under this general topic there were three sub-topics. "Who is responsible for the success or failure of a society?" discussed by Miss Lizzie Paterson, Mrs. J. C. Kline and Mrs. Korst; "What can our society do to increase its membership?" discussed by Miss Clara Hanson, Miss Purcell and Mrs. Packer; and "How can our society increase its usefulness?" answered by Miss May Clark, Mrs. C. C. Bennett and Mrs. David Brown. A general discussion of these questions followed and several valuable suggestions for strengthening the society for the present year's work were given.

One of the most interesting features of the evening was the report from the Woman's synodical meeting held in connection with the semi-centennial meeting of the synod of the Presbyterian church recently. This report was given by Mrs. A. A. Jackson, who served as the society's delegate. Mrs. Jackson gave her report in an informal manner, saying that while the meeting was not a large one numerically, owing to the fact that Hudson is so far distant from the southern presbyteries of the state, it was rich in spiritual blessing which it bestowed on all who attended it. The reports were all encouraging, more new societies being reported than at last year's meeting. The meeting at Hudson marked the thirtieth anniversary of the Woman's synod as well as the fiftieth anniversary of the state synod of the church at Hudson. The incorporation of the Woman's synod was perfected so that it can legally hold bequests made to it. Mrs. Jackson spoke briefly of the various addresses made at the woman's meeting emphasizing especially the work of Miss Susie Pinkham, who is special missionary in the northern part of the state. After New Year's, when it becomes difficult for Miss Pinkham to pursue her work in the lumber districts, she will make a brief tour of the state and will come to this city to tell something of the pitiful conditions which exist in the northern part of the state and of which no one who has been an eye witness can have an adequate. Mrs. Jackson also laid special stress on the work for the freedmen saying that it is work which everyone who loves this country should take a deep interest. It is necessary, not alone for the love of the freedmen, but the safety of the country depends on it. If this work is not carried on, the country will be swamped by the ignorance and superstition of the uneducated negroes. Mrs. Jackson said in closing that the synodical meeting impressed her anew with the importance of prayer in every department of work.

Mite boxes or, as Mrs. Jackson called them, blessing boxes were distributed among the ladies. The money dropped in them will be used to help Miss Pinkham in her Northern Wisconsin Mission work and Mrs. Jackson said she hoped that each lady would realize that every penny dropped in these boxes would go forth to fight intemperance and immorality of the worst sort.

The reports of the secretary, the treasurer and the secretary of literature were presented after which Mrs. J. T. Henderson told the ladies that Mrs. C. A. Hunt had requested her to invite them to attend the sessions of the district convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist churches of the Janesville district, which is to be held in this city on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 5 and 6. A unanimous vote of thanks was returned to Mrs. Hunt for the invitation after which Mrs. Jackson read an excellent paper on "Church Loyalty" which had been presented at the Hudson meeting. The meeting closed with the singing of the doxology and the repetition in concert of the Lord's prayer.

HANDSOME ANNUAL IN BOOK FORM

Junior Class of the Janesville High School Will Publish the Phoenix, the School Journal.

The Junior class of the High school is to edit and publish the Phoenix, the official paper of the school, for this year and the result of their labor is to be a handsome annual in book form, such as the colleges and universities issue each year. With the exception of one year, previous to this the Phoenix has always appeared as a monthly periodical and as such could not be very well preserved.

Two years ago the Phoenix was published as an annual and contained not only the usual jokes and current school news so essential to a school publication but much information that is really valuable. The book was handsomely illustrated with photographs of faculty, students and various departments of the school work, and also with fancy drawings, evidences of artistic skill of some of the students.

The result was a handsome volume which is highly prized by all who own a copy.

The Juniors this year promise a much finer book than the preceding annual. The work of preparing material for it has already begun and the class is receiving bids on its publication. It will be cloth bound, elaborately illustrated and will be ready for the subscribers by the first of May.

The Juniors will take entire charge of the publication and will be assisted in gathering news by reporters from each class. The appointments have all been made and the following students constitute the Phoenix board:

THE LIVER.

Continually Changing its Position in its Auxiliary Formation of the Blood.

Every drop of blood that flows through our veins passes through the liver in its formation. Any disease or work that tends to check the circulation of the blood in its passage through the liver materially affects the health. Sewing, leaning forward at the desk, tight lacing, and all sedentary habits retard the circulation of the blood through the liver. The first symptom of a disorderly liver is flushed cheeks, the complexion being dark, showing a congested condition of the circulation. The pressure on the nerves is increased, the great nerve center, the brain, remains with violent headache. Other symptoms are dizziness, bad breath, coated tongue, pain above the eyes and in the rear of the head, pain in the neck, dull and tired feelings. The complexion gradually becomes yellow and yellowish, and oftentimes covered with blotches, which are typical evidences of torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup, Peppermint and Herb Laxative Composition acts gently on the liver, increasing its power in the performance of its duty, giving a bright, clear complexion, dispelling all nervousness, fevers and all fits caused from a torpid liver and sluggish bowels. Pleasant to the taste, mild in its action and soothing in its effects. 50c and $1 bottles. Your druggist sells it. Sample bottle and book free. Peppermint Syrup Company, Moncksboro, N. C.

W. K. TANNER HAS WALKED THE PLANK

The Milton Junction Oil Inspection district has been abolished and in consequence K. W. Tanner has "walked the plank." The work which Mr. Tanner, deputy inspector, has done will fall to the deputies at East Troy, Janesville and Edgerton. It is known that there has been some friction over the appointment of a successor to Mr. Tanner and an evident misunderstanding between the state inspector and the executive department at Madison, which may have some bearing in doing away with this district.—Milton Junction Telephone.

Richardson-Williams Wedding
Miss Minnie Adelle Richardson and Mr. J. Findley Williams, were married at the home of the bride's father, L. A. Richardson last night, the Rev. C. M. Starkweather performing the ceremony. They were attended by Miss Kathryn M. Conkey and Mark A. Richardson, brother of the bride. After the ceremony, the guests, numbering about 40, partook of a wedding supper. Mr. and Mrs. Williams will reside at Janesville, where the groom is a machinist, employed on special work for M. D. Taylor.—Milton Junction Telephone.

"The Village Parson."
"The Village Parson" is a play of high moral character and sterling worth, and will compare most favorably with the best of dramas now before the public from a literary view. It is one of the best plays produced in years. Much praise has been bestowed by the press and public upon the piece wherever presented. The scenery is new and beautiful with complete settings for each act, and the cast is a strong one in detail. "The Village Parson" comes to the Myers Grand, Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Hall Elected.
London, Oct. 26.—Hall Caine has been elected to represent the town of Ramsay in the Manx Parliament, receiving 458 votes to 191 cast for his opponent, a local lawyer named Kerr.

Remy Reaches Vladivostock.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The Navy Department has received a cablegram from Rear Admiral Remy, announcing his arrival at Vladivostock, aboard his flagship, the Brooklyn.

Mrs. A. Porter and son, now of Delavan, spent the day, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bennett.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser a work for every woman is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper covered book or 31 stamps for cloth covered to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEVER A PRETTIER, OR HAPPIER PARTY

Reception Given at the Janesville Club House by Misses Louise Kent and Agnes Shearer.

The Janesville Golf club house has been the scene of many pretty parties since its erection but never of a prettier or a happier one than the one of last evening, at which Misses Agnes Shearer and Louise Kent were the hostesses. The pleasant dance hall had been made doubly attractive by an artistic arrangement of autumn leaves and woodbine over the doors and windows and massed effectively in the corners.

One hundred young people enjoyed heartily the pleasures of the occasion. It was a congenial crowd of golfers, although golf clubs were not in evidence, for the hostesses had limited their invitations to friends who are members of the golf club. The party was a very informal one and jollity reigned supreme from the moment of the first greetings until goodnights were said about midnight and the guests forsook the club house for homebound caravans.

Dancing was the diversion of the evening and as entrancing waltz followed spirited two step or restful round over and over, few there were that could resist the invitation which lurked in every note of the excellent music furnished by the orchestra which included George Baumann, mandolin; Harry Haggart, guitar and Roy Carter, piano.

Between the dances the corner in which the punch bowl stood, filled with delicious refreshment, was a favorite retreat. Here the guests were served very prettily by Misses Nettie Kent, Jessie Ecalin and Abby Atwood.

Toward the close of the evening the doors to the kitchen were thrown open, light refreshments served in buffet style were disclosed to view and the gentlemen were invited to wait upon the ladies. So eager were the gentlemen in entering upon this privilege that the serving of the refreshments occasioned much amusement. Caterer G. A. Shurtleff was in charge.

The Juniors this year promise a much finer book than the preceding annual. The work of preparing material for it has already begun and the class is receiving bids on its publication. It will be cloth bound, elaborately illustrated and will be ready for the subscribers by the first of May.

The Juniors will take entire charge of the publication and will be assisted in gathering news by reporters from each class. The appointments have all been made and the following students constitute the Phoenix board:

PLAIN TALK.

To Catarrh Sufferers.

Every person suffering from catarrh in its many forms knows that the common lotions, salves and douches do not cure. It is needless to argue that point or to cite cases of failure, because every victim of catarrhal trouble knows it for himself if he has tried them.

A local application, if it does anything at all, simply gives temporary relief; a wash, lotion, salve or powder cannot reach the seat of the disease which is in the blood.

The mucous membrane seeks to relieve the blood of catarrhal poison by secreting large quantities of mucus, the discharge sometimes closing up the nostrils, descending to the throat and larynx, causing an irritating cough, continual clearing of the throat, deafness, indigestion and many other disagreeable and persistent symptoms.

A remedy to really cure catarrh must be an internal treatment; a remedy which will gradually cleanse the system from catarrhal poison and remove the fever and congestion always present in the mucous membrane. The best remedies for this purpose are Eucalyptol, Sanguinaria and Hydrastin, but the difficulty has always been to get these valuable carminatives combined in one palatable, convenient and efficient form.

Recently this has been accomplished and the preparation put on the market under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; they are large, pleasant tasting lozenges, so that they may be slowly dissolved in the mouth thus reaching every part of the mucous membrane and finally the stomach and intestines.

An advantage to be considered also is that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain no cocaine, morphine or poisonous narcotics, so often found in catarrhal powders, and the use of which often entails a habit more dangerous than the disease.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cts. for full sized package and are probably the safest and most effectual catarrh cure on the market.

WERE MARRIED AT HARTLAND TODAY

Miss Anna Arndt and Andrew Christianson—Ceremony Was Unique in This Country.

Miss Anna Arndt and Andrew Christianson, well-known young people of this city, were happily married today at Hartland, Wis. The young people were the central figures in a wedding, unique for this country, the Danish ceremony being used and the officiating clergyman being the pastor of the Danish church at Hartland. There are but few Danish churches in this state and the young people went to Hartland in order that their marriage might be sanctified by the rites of their own church. The ceremony was solemnized at the home of N. P. Jenson.

Mr. and Mrs. Christiansen will make their home in this city where both have many friends, who will wish them much joy and prosperity. The happy groom is a mason in the employ of Lars Frederickson, the contractor.

Scrofula

This root of many evils—

Glandular tumors, abscesses, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions, sore ears, inflamed eyelids, rickets, dyspepsia, catarrh, readiness to catch cold and inability to get rid of it easily, paleness, nervousness and other ailments including the consumptive tendency.

Can be completely and permanently removed, no matter how young or old the sufferer.

Hood's Sarsaparilla was given the daughter of Silas Vernon, Waukesha, N. Y., who had broken out with scrofula all over her face and head. The first bottle helped her and when she had taken six the sores were all healed and her face was smooth. He writes that she has never shown any sign of the scrofula returning.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN

Requires Treatment Which Acts in Harmony With the Female System.

Letter from Mrs. Wright, President of Brooklyn, N.Y., Round Table, Proves this Claim.

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary medical treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by derangement of the female organism, and which while it causes disturbances similar to ordinary indigestion cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar utero-tonic effects as well; in other words, a derangement of the female organs may have such a disturbing effect upon woman's whole system as to cause serious indigestion and dyspepsia, and it cannot be relieved without curing the original cause of the trouble, which seems to find its source in the pelvic organs.

As proof of this theory we beg to call attention to the letter from Mrs. Wright, of Brooklyn, N.Y., herewith published:

MRS. MAGGIE WRIGHT.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years I suffered more or less with dyspepsia which so degenerated my entire system that I was unfit to properly attend to my daily duties. I felt weak and nervous and nothing I ate tasted good and felt like a stone in my stomach. I tried several dyspepsia cures, but nothing seemed to help me permanently. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and was happily surprised to find that it acted like a fine tonic, and in a few days I began to enjoy and properly digest my food. My recovery was rapid, and in five weeks I was a different woman. Seven bottles completely cured me, and a dozen or more of my friends have used it since." —MRS. MAGGIE WRIGHT, 12 Van Voorhis St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

How a Serious Tumor Case Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Some time ago I wrote you that my regular physician had made no examination and told me I was afflicted with a tumor in my womb. I had headache, headache, bearing down pains and very profuse menstruation. My limbs would ache so I could not sleep and I was very weak and nervous. I was bloated from my head to my feet. After receiving your letter I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and followed all the rest of your advice as near as I could, and the tumor was expelled in pieces, and I regained my natural size. I continued taking your Vegetable Compound for a while longer and felt like a new woman. I cannot thank you enough for your kind advice and what your medicine did for me. It certainly saved my life." —MRS. PERLEY S. WILLIS, Veshire, Vt. (March 11, 1901.)

It would seem by these statements that women would save time and much sickness if they would write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice as soon as any incipient illness appears. Her advice is free, and has put thousands of women on the right road to recovery.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find and prove testimonial of the fact that Lydia E. ### Came Near Dying.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," said M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines, but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely. I went to sleep and did not awake for eight hours. On awakening a few hours ago I felt so gratified that the first work I do on going to the office is to write to the manufacturers of this remedy and offer them my grateful thanks and say, 'God bless you and the splendid medicine you make.' This remedy is for sale by King's Pharmacy and People's Drug Co.

$2.73 to Buffalo and returns via C. M. & St. P. Ry.

On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, good for five days. For further particulars inquire at passenger station.

A new remedy for biliousness is now on sale at the People's Drug store and King's Pharmacy. It is called Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indications of the disease appear. Price, 25 cents per box. Samples free.

Alderman McMillan is Dead.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 26.—Alexander McMillan, formerly mayor of La Crosse, is dead, aged 76 years, after an illness of several years. He was one of the old residents of La Crosse, settling there in 1853. He was elected mayor by the Republicans in 1871 and later a member of the state legislature.

OCTOBER FLOWERS.

There is a beautiful display of them at the Pan-American. The gardens of the City of Light are one of its most attractive features. Artistic scenes which the lover of beauty should not fail to see.

The Pan-American is one of the greatest flower shows that ever was, but there are so many other things in which it is great that the rarity and beauty of its floral features are perhaps apt to be overlooked. If people would take more time to allow the artistic and beautiful features of the Exposition to impress their senses and permeate their inmost being instead of racing from one part of the grounds to another, trying to see every exhibit and every show on the Midway, they would go home feeling greater benefit from their stay in the Rainbow City.

The Pan-American is full of gardens which tempt the visitor to rest awhile and drink in the beauties of nature. It may seem surprising that in the month of October there are flowers worth looking at, but such is the fact. The rains of the past few weeks have kept the landscape as fresh and beautiful as in May and June, and as one flower goes out of the scene another takes its place. On opening day the hyacinths filled the air with their dainty fragrance, in June tulips lifted their proud heads, later in the month of brides and sweet girl graduates came roses, with their rich perfume, and as the summer passed the other flowers in their season sprung up as if by magic to take the place of those which had done their blossoming and served their turn in the entertainment of the visitors to the City of Light. And now one sees the tall canna, the gay geranium and such old fashioned flowers as grandmother's garden had—the phlox, the pink, the begonia, the petunia and other posies which are no less beautiful because they do not happen to be novel.

In entering the grounds by the Elmwood gate visitors pass two tall and curious looking trees, which perhaps few in their anxiety to reach the heart of the Exposition stop to notice. If they realized that they were century plants just budding, a thing which, as all know, century plants only do once in a long, long time, they would doubtless stop and look with open mouths and wondering gaze. It is a sight which one cannot see very often anywhere else. One of these century plants is nearly forty feet in height.

The Rose Gardens around the Woman's building, having for their background the outlines of the Spanish Renaissance buildings about the main court and the Electric Tower looming up at its north end, with the Mirror Lakes and the Triumphal Bridge and the groups of statuary abounding, form a scene whose artistic aspect must appeal to even the least aesthetic visitor.

The canna are very effective decorative plants, with their tall leaves in green and red and brown. A rich canna one sees here is named Governor Roosevelt. It would seem appropriate now to change its name to President Roosevelt.

On the opposite side of the Triumphal Bridge is the Walled Island, and here one roams amid old fashioned flowers, growing as though they had sprung up there all by themselves without any assistance from the landscape gardener and his corps of assistants. But of course that is not the case. The studied carelessness of the gardening of this island is only one of the pretty deceptions employed to produce the impression that it is all the work of Mother Nature herself.

Have you seen the fairylike effects in the garden about the Fountain of Abundance at night? It is one of the new things. This small garden is very beautiful by day, and at night electric lights of different colors have been hidden among the flowers and plants, so that one sees the surface of the ground dotted with these little spots of light, bringing out the beauty of the flowers, and all forming a scene impossible to describe, but very charming indeed to witness. It is quite a pretty surprise even to old Pan-American visitors.

Did you ever notice in crossing the Court of Lilies, south of the Machinery building, a heavy vapor arising from the basin in the center of that court? Sometimes it has so much the appearance of smoke that people think something must be fire in the garden, but it is only the steam or vapor created by the heating of the water in that basin for the benefit of the tropical lilies which grow therein. These lilies, which are known as the Victoria Regia, have enormous leaves, some of them three feet in diameter.

Other gardens where there are flowers in bloom during this month of October are those in front of the United States Government building and the Horticulture group, where the gay geraniums and sweet petunias contrast their colors with the green flags growing in the basin and with the white statuary disposed along their slopes.

There was a floral fete at the Exposition during the first week of October, and this in its way, of course, was an affair of much beauty and magnificence; but, as a matter of fact, there have been floral fetes at the Pan-American since opening day.

New York, Oct. 26.—Frank Farrell, known as the "pool room king," won something like $100,000 on his horse Blues at Morris park. After the race Farrell bet $25,000 of his winnings against $20,000, put up by a bookmaker, that Edward M. Shepard would be the next mayor of New York.

Alderman McMillan is Dead.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 26.—Alexander McMillan, formerly mayor of La Crosse, is dead, aged 76 years, after an illness of several years. He was one of the old residents of La Crosse, settling there in 1853. He was elected mayor by the Republicans in 1871 and later a member of the state legislature.

SEVEN YEARS OF PLENTY.

"Don't do that, Johnnie."

The speaker was a girl of twelve, who, in company with her brother, a lad of eight, were spending the bright autumn day in the woods nutting. Noon found them on the bank of a sprightly stream, whose clear water went singing down over the pebbles to the river just below.

They had finished their lunch, and Johnnie, for lack of other masticate, was busily engaged in throwing into the stream a pile of chips and wood that had been gathered by some thoughtful hand against the winter that was fast approaching.

He kept on with his play, watching the stream, as it picked up the fuel and rapidly carried it out of sight, turning his head long enough to say: "Why, Mary, what harm does it do?"

"Come over here and I'll tell you," But Johnnie didn't come, and so she continued.

"Don't you want to hear a story, Johnnie?" and then he was all attention, for Mary's stories were always worth hearing.

She pointed the moral by saying: "That little pile of wood that you was throwing away just to see it float down stream, was worth something, and it was wrong for you to waste it."

Johnnie said, "Yes, that's all right, but what about the story?"

"A great many years ago a king, who lived in a country that was rich in grain and cattle, had a dream. It was a funny dream, and when he woke up in the morning, and all the next day, he kept thinking about it, and the next night he had another dream that was funnier than the first, and the two dreams bothered him so much that he told them to his friends to see if they could tell him what they meant, but they listened and thought, and said: 'No, we give it up.'

At last one of them said he knew a young man that was in jail for some trifling offense, and a friend of his told him that he knew all about dreams, and maybe it would pay the king to try him. So he sent for the young man, whose name was Joseph, and when he came he took off his hat and bowed down low, and asked the king what he wanted. And when he told him he said:

"It is not in me. God shall give thee an answer of peace."

And so the king told Joseph his dreams.

"He said: 'I was on the bank of a stream, and over on the meadow were seven fat slick cattle, and I thought how nice they looked, and while I watched them, there scrambled up over the bank seven of the leanest, scrawniest cattle you ever saw, and they made a rush for the seven fat cattle, and ate them up, and then they rushed back to the stream as lean as they were before, and then I woke up.'

"The next night I was out in a corn field, and stopped to look at a stalk that had seven nice, fat ears on it, and while I looked there sprang up another stalk close by, and it had on it seven thin, dried up ears, and when they saw the seven fat ears, they pitched in and ate them up, and yet they were just as thin as ever. And I woke up again."

"And Joseph thought a minute and then he said:

"God has showed the king what he is about to do."

"The two dreams mean the same thing. The seven fat cattle and the seven fat ears of corn, are seven years of plenty; and the seven lean cattle and the seven lean ears of corn, are seven years of famine. If thinking is wise, he will select a man to help him, and he will lay up enough in the seven years of plenty, to provide for the seven years of famine." And the king believed it, and took off his finger ring and gave it to Joseph, and appointed him to collect food and supplies, against the time of famine.

"Go you see, Johnnie, you ought not to waste anything, because some day there may be a famine." And Johnnie said: "What happened to Joseph? Did they have a famine? Mary told him they did, but Joseph got the people ready for it, and they came out all right."

This little story of a fact that happened over in Egypt so long ago, suggests that there comes to every life, years of plenty, followed by years of famine.

Years of prosperity and happiness, when all is sunshine, with scarcely a cloud to intervene, followed by years of depression and sorrow, when scarcely a ray of light is visible.

Years when success crowns effort, and when prosperity is recognized on every hand, followed by years, when the same honest effort fails, and every turn of the wheel seems to be backward.

Years of health and vigor, when the blood pulses through the veins in life giving currents, painting the cheek with roses, and quickening the step with energy and activity, followed by years of pain and weariness, when life seems a burden, and its responsibilities too great for human endurance.

The seasons of prosperity and depression, are not foretold by dreams, and no Joseph is needed for an interpreter. They are so common to life in all its history between the dawning and the closing that he who runs may read, and yet humanity, in its thoughtlessness and indifference, frequently fails to heed, and provide in the years of plenty, for the famine not so far away.

The young man full of life and energy, with muscles well developed, and robust health, enters the treadmill of every day toil with the feeling that he can endure anything in the way of physical strain and exertion. Work is a pleasure, and when he adds to it a little dissipation by way of variety, and the candle commences to burn at both ends, he feels an uneasiness, until the famine caused by wasted vitality stares him in the face, and he goes out of life at its meridian, because of recklessness in the years of plenty, when resources should be husbanded, to meet the strain of emergencies.

There are human wrecks scattered all along the pathway of life, in every department of its great activities, that are monuments of wastefulness. The years of plenty were so full of promise that thought never centered on the possibility of failure or famine, and when the hard experiences of changed conditions presented, reserve forces were lacking, and wreckage resulted.

A weak body, under normal conditions, in young or middle life, before old age has stamped upon it the marks of time, is usually an evidence of wasted energies and thoughtless expenditure during the years of plenty.

A weak and shallow mind at any age past mature, while it retains its faculties, is an evidence of wasted opportunities during the years of plenty, when mental riches are so easily attained by every honest seeker.

But the saddest sight that comes to thoughtful observation, is the old man or woman, who, standing on the edge of time, with feeble step and clouded vision, peers into an uncertain future, without a ray of hope, to lighten the gloom, and looking back through the long years, realizes that the years of plenty were neglected, and the famine not anticipated, is a grave reality.

The kingdom of the soul is an immortal kingdom. If properly guarded, and Divinely guided, every faculty of body and mind, will contribute to storing energy in the years of plenty, and when the work is finished and the armor and helmet laid aside, there will come from the other shore a cheerful word of commendation, and the "Well done, thou good and faithful servant" will usher in a day where the years of plenty are perpetual, and where the taint of famine is unknown.

"Work while the day lasts" is a safe motto, for every faculty of body, mind and heart to adopt.

ARE YOU WELL?

The question is a little impertinent, but no offense is intended.

It is a blessing to be well, and drink in the bracing air and bright sunshine of an October day.

If you are well, you ought to be happy for health contributes to happiness, and dispels the blues.

If you are well and happy, you may be tired after the work of a busy week, and glad to see Saturday night.

It may not have occurred to you that tomorrow is a day of rest, but it is. A day made expressly for the rest of tired body and weary mind.

An All-Wise Creator provided that one day in seven should be set apart as a rest day, when the wheels of commerce, as well as the wheels of busy brains, and the muscles of active bodies, should cease from toil.

The bell of every sanctuary, and the open door of every church is a reminder of the day and an invitation to step aside from the cares of constant business and the constant drudgery of the home, and spend an hour in seeking rest.

You may say "Hang the church; how much rest is there in a church pew. I have no time for that kind of nonsense." And yet you would hardly care to live where the church bell and spire were missing.

The church pew is not a good place to sleep. It lacks the comfort of a couch. The music is not always soothing, and the voice of the preacher is sometimes harsh. The collection box may be a reminder of hard times, and the whole atmosphere of the place may not be restful. You have

years of plenty.

Years of prosperity and happiness,

when all is sunshine, with scarcely a cloud to intervene, followed by years of depression and sorrow, when scarcely a ray of light is visible.

Years when success crowns effort,

tried it now, and then, and speak from experience.

Perhaps the church was not all to blame. It is possible that mind and heart were so loaded with care and criticism, that the music failed to penetrate dull ears, the voice of the preacher was but a discordant echo, and the collection box a delusion to capture stray nickels. It all depends upon the attitude assumed. Try it again tomorrow, prompted by a desire to get some helpful rest out of the place, and results may surprise you.

THE NEW TAX LEVY.

The new tax levy shows an increase of $912,284, of which Rock county's share is $33,729, all due to the innocent one mill school tax as applied to increased valuation. The Water Company paid this year on the one mill tax, $38; next year they will be asked to pay, $180—about five times as much.

This is exceptional, however, the average increase being just double last year's assessment. The only defense offered for this mild fraud is that the money goes to the schools, and therefore no one has a right to complain. That is the most flimsy kind of a thin argument. The schools are well supported this year on a tax of $650,000. No intimation was whispered that they needed more than double the amount next year, and yet that is what they will receive by direct tax. That sort of slipshod, reckless legislation ought to be enough to damn any man politically, who was a party to it.

The people of the state have a right to know in advance when any such snap measures are contemplated, whether the money is to be used for schools or for any other purpose. There is no lack of loyalty to the public schools, but there is a well merited lack of confidence in men elected to serve the best interests of the state, when an extra tax of a million dollars is forced upon them, without notice. It is about time that men elected to positions of trust, are made to realize that the people have some rights that cannot be ignored with impunity. The one mill tax covers a multitude of sins.

An All-Wise Creator provided that one day in seven should be set apart as a rest day, when the wheels of commerce, as well as the wheels of busy brains, and the muscles of active bodies, should cease from toil.

The bell of every sanctuary, and the open door of every church is a reminder of the day and an invitation to step aside from the cares of constant business and the constant drudgery of the home, and spend an hour in seeking rest.

You may say "Hang the church; how much rest is there in a church pew. I have no time for that kind of nonsense." And yet you would hardly care to live where the church bell and spire were missing.

The church pew is not a good place to sleep. It lacks the comfort of a couch. The music is not always soothing, and the voice of the preacher is sometimes harsh. The collection box may be a reminder of hard times, and the whole atmosphere of the place may not be restful. You have

A SEA FIGHT IN 1861.

WOODEN WARSHIPS SMASHING THE HATTERAS FORTS.

First Important Naval Action of the War—Key to the Coast of North Carolina Captured by Commodore Stringham's Fleet.

[Copyright, 1901, by G. L. Kilmer.]

a hurry to tackle forts. The sailors in 1861 took great chances, and boldness carried the day.

Commodore Stringham's battle at Hatteras inlet the 25th and 26th of August, 1861, proved that the navy was equal to the work of breaking roads for the army when a coast position was to be attacked. North Carolina put herself upon the defensive even before joining the Southern Confederacy. The steamboat Winslow was armed and sent out cruising in the waters adjoining the sounds, and all her prizes were turned into ships of war. In August there were four vessels in all ready to defend sounds and to make war upon the commerce of the north whenever a rich ship could be run down. Stringham was sent to the scene to put a stop to these raids and close the inlets to the sounds. Hatteras was the chief point of offense, and the inlet had been fortified with two works commanding the ship channel.

On the point of Hatteras island, south of the cape, where the channel passes through the narrow bluffs, the North Carolinians built a fort covering an acre and a half of ground, with bomb-proof chambers, mounting 25 guns. This was the main point of resistance. The mouth of the inlet is covered by a sand bar which compels ships to follow a narrow channel in order to pass through, and hence there was no sea room for maneuver in front of the hostile guns. South of Fort Hatteras, the large one in the pass, there is a bay half a mile wide, which ships must cross in order to reach the channel, and as a sort of an outwork or picket to hold up the enemy and give warning to the garrison at Hatteras the southerners built another work called Fort Clark. This work mounted five 32 pounders.

Flag Officer Stringham's force was very formidable, but victory was by no means a certainty. The steam frigate Minnesota led off as flagship, followed by the frigate Wabash, the sloops of war Cumberland, Susquehanna and Pawnee and the converted steamers Monticello and Harriet Lane. Three transports carried 800 soldiers under Ben Butler. The intention of the commanders was to land the troops on the shore north of Fort Hatteras, and while the ships bombarded the works from a safe distance the soldiers would charge along the beach and capture the ships.

The surf rolls with terrible violence upon the beach along Hatteras, and iron surf boats had been provided for the troops to get ashore. The Monticello and Harriet Lane, both of light draft, ran close inshore to cover the landing in case of attack. The first landing was made early on the 25th, but the work went slowly, and the surf increased in violence. Finally the boats were hurled on the beach and destroyed, and after about 300 men had reached shore it was found impossible to reinforce them or to take them back to the ships. Two howitzers went ashore with the troops, but the ammunition was wet, and the situation was very desperate. The gunboats were compelled to stand offshore out of range of the landing. Without provisions or water, the detachment was left to its fate and later in the war would have fared roughly at the hands of the "Johnnies." But in August, 1861, the southerners were still praying "to be let alone."

The frigates and sloops, four in number, opened fire on Fort Clark about the middle of the forenoon, using new and bold tactics to avoid direct shots from the fort. The vessels moved steadily on, passing and repassing the guns at varying distances so that the southerners could not fix the range. Their guns had moving targets and seldom landed a shot, while shells from the ships speedily made the fort too hot for the Confederate gunners. Soon past noon a shot carried away the flag on the fort, and afterward the garrison left the works, some taking flight in boats and others running along shore toward Fort Hatteras.

Seeing the flight of the Confederates from Fort Clark, the detachment of Butler's soldiers on the beach moved down and took possession, but the shells of the fleet aimed at Fort Hatteras passed over that work into Fort Clark. Driven from shelter by their own fire, the troops returned to the beach and passed the night in a rain on the wet beach, with no food but what they picked up on their march to the fort. During the night a Confederate regiment from Newbern came to the beach to help the garrison beat off the enemy, but they were too busy repairing the parapets and chambers injured by the bombardment to look for outside trouble.

Seeing great confusion on land after the Confederate flag fell from Fort Clark, Flag Officer Stringham supposed that both forts had given up the fight. Fort Hatteras ceased firing. The former commander of Fort Clark, Colonel W. F. Martin of the Seventh North Carolina, went into Fort Hatteras, reporting his little garrison of 100 men worn out by fighting. About that time Flag Officer Barron of the Confederate navy entered the fort and at the request of the commandant took charge of the defense. All the guns in the fort were of naval pattern, and it was thought that a naval officer could handle the force with the best execution. There were three guns in Fort Hatteras bearing upon Fort Clark, and another was put in position to keep the enemy out of the abandoned work.

Meanwhile the steamer Monticello had an exciting time trying to run through the inlet. When it seemed evident that the Confederates had abandoned both forts, the Monticello made her way with difficulty in the shallow water to the mouth of the inlet. She often grounded, and Hatteras guns paid no attention, but finally when she was caught in shallow water the guns opened, landing five shells in her within a few minutes. One shot went completely through the ship from starboard to port and landed in a coal bunker. Under cover of the fleet the steamer got out from under the Confederate guns, and the ships soon anchored for the night. During this day's fight the Confederate war steamers lay idle in the sound. After the abandonment of Fort Clark the Ells carried troops and ammunition to Fort Hatteras, passing and repassing under fire. She took Flag Officer Barron and others into the fort during the afternoon. It was said that some of the officers of the little flotilla wished to put troops ashore to recover Fort Clark and hold it at the point of the bayonet if need be, but their counsel was overruled.

Very early on the 26th the large ships of Stringham's fleet moved up and were saluted by the stars and stripes on Fort Clark. About 8 o'clock a.m. the Wabash opened fire, according to the Confederate narrative, and immediately a rain of shells began dropping in and around the fort. The combined armament of the fleet was 73 guns. A

COMMODORE S. H. STRINGHAM.

Confederate counted 28 shells falling in one minute. A rifle battery in the sand on the shore as well as the guns of Fort Morgan added to the fire. The guns of Hatteras started to bravely to respond, but soon found that it was useless. Their shots could not reach the ships.

The Confederates on the warships were amazed at seeing the shots from Hatteras fall short of the Yankee ships. Sometimes the fort would cease firing and then open with a round or two simply to show fight. The guns of the fleet sometimes dropped a shot among the Confederate ships, but none of them was struck. Finally the Confederate gunners abandoned their stations and took refuge in the bombproof. When this was packed with about 300 men, a Yankee shell went through the ventilator and landed in the crowd. Fortunately the shell didn't explode, but it resulted in a terrible panic which hastened the fall of the fort. The men rushed from the place and found cover elsewhere. The magazine lay next to the bombproof, and the thought of what might have happened had the shell traveled through the thin partition separating the compartments or even exploded in the bombproof was too much for green fighting men to endure. The fuse of this shell went out, but soon another exploded directly over the magazine. Fortunately this shell did not set fire to the roof, but it was clear that the enemy had the range of the vitals of the work, and there wasn't a gun on hand strong enough to land a single shot in the fleet. Captain Barron called a council of war, and at 10:45 a.m. less than two hours after the firing of the first shot, Hatteras was flying the white flag, and the first naval battle of the war was ended.

This was not alone the first naval battle and naval victory of the war, but the first unequivocal victory on land or sea. The surrender was unconditional, and over 600 soldiers, with their officers, and the armament of two forts fell into Stringham's hands. The Confederate warships sailed away into the sound for a brief respite of liberty.

The Hatteras victory was the beginning of the conquest of all the North Carolina coast and was a blow to blockade running from that region. The Confederates fought tenaciously for the control of those waters even to the end of the war, but with the fall of Hatteras went the key to the region. Stringham's work was quickly and thoroughly done.

SAVED THE LIFE OF A PIG.

The Owner Married the Man Who Stole the Animal.

The office of Magistrate Conohan, in Wilkesbarre, Pa., was the scene of a novel wedding today, the participants in which were Miss Mathilda Parkerson, aged 53, and Hiram Johnson, aged 55. Miss Parkerson and Johnson claimed the ownership of a little pig. Miss Parkerson said it was her pig and Hiram took an oath that the pig was his property. After squabbling for ten days the matter was brought before Justice Conohan, who promised to settle the dispute. The pig was brought to the squire's office and the interested parties were on hand. Miss Parkerson swore the pig was hers. Then Johnson was sworn. He called the pig by name and the little one followed him all over the room. He had trained the pig and for half an hour he amused the squire and all the witnesses. The alderman finally rendered the following verdict: That the pig should be killed and roasted and divided equally between Miss Parkerson and Hiram Johnson. Both protested. They did not want to see the pig killed. Miss Parkerson said she would save the pig if she had to die for it. The squire suggested that they get married—it would save the pig and they would both own it. Hiram said he would not propose to Miss Parkerson as he was ashamed. After some hesitation Mathilda finally asked Hiram if he would become her husband. The justice remembered that he had a wedding ring in the safe that had been left there for security. The groom bought it for $2.50. The couple then got a marriage license and the alderman made them man and wife, thus saving the life of the pig. After the alderman had kissed the pair and wished them a prosperous life they got into the farm wagon, the pig between them, and drove home.—Philadelphia Record.

BLOSSOMED INTO HEAVENLY GLORY

Miss Flossie MacGregor Rests in Eternal Peace, After Many Months of Suffering.

The brightness of happy girlhood just ripening into the full blossom of beautiful womanhood, has faded away under Death's icy hand and Florence Stewart MacGregor has become but a prelude and undying memory to earthly memory. She was transplanted into the garden of Heaven's eternal city, today at noon, when she closed her eyes in the final sleep at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacGregor, 9 North Wisconsin street.

Flossie, as she was lovingly known by her friends, completed the twenty-sixth year of her life on the fifth day of last June. Almost at the same time her high school life was finished, she being a beloved member of the graduating class of 1901. She had never been strong physically and before commencement she began to grow more frail and delicate. She was spared in every possible way, although she wrote and personally directed the singing of the class song. The rest which followed commencement failed to restore her health and she gradually wasted away. The disease developed into tuberculosis of the lungs which finally sapped her life away although she struggled bravely against death's coming. Until recently it was thought that she was growing better and would recover. Everything that medical skill and tender care of loving relatives found possible was done to spare the precious life, but in vain.

Hers was a happy joyous nature and during the last months of suffering the full sweetness of her character was revealed in her patience and thoughtfulness for others. She was an accomplished musician and possessed exceptional artistic ability, many of the illustrations in the Phoenix annual being her handiwork. She enjoyed the love of a large circle of friends and her death will be mourned sincerely.

The great loss and sorrow falls most heavily on the bereaved parents, sisters and brother. Those who mourn a dear sister are Mrs. C. N. Vankirk, Misses Ellen, Margaret and Belle MacGregor of this city, Miss Alice MacGregor of Chicago and Wallace MacGregor, who is now traveling in the South for the J. L. Case company. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

CLINTON Y. M. C. A.
VERY PROSPEROUS

J. C. Kline, the good-natured and able secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. was at Clinton last night to attend the sixth annual banquet of the Clinton association. He reports a very pleasant time. One hundred and thirteen men sat down to the banquet table.

Speeches were delivered by John M. Whitehead, F. E. Anderson, state secretary, and G. M. Phelps, state university secretary. Oscar Halverson, F. F. Lewis and the Janeville male quartet furnished vocal and instrumental music. L. L. Olds, the Clinton association president, presided.

Among those present besides the above from Janesville were J. C. Kline, John H. Jones, W. E. Clinton, Rollin Lewis and others. The Clinton branch is in fine shape financially and unusually prosperous.

Sisters of Mercy Fair

The annual fair given by the Sisters of Mercy of St. Joseph's convent opened successfully at Assembly hall last evening. There is an unusually large and fine collection of articles to be disposed of and none of the devices which go to make a church fair a financial success have been forgotten. There is a fish pond, a wheel of fortune and the usual number of pretty and persistent girls selling chances. Prof. Tuckwood's orchestra furnished excellent music and dancing was indulged in. Johnny Smith's orchestra will alternate with Tuckwood's in furnishing music during the ten days for which the fair will continue. The attendance last evening was not large.

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Burt Richardson the proprietor of the Peoples' meat market, next to the opera house has decided to retire from the meat business and will close out all stock before Saturday evening, October 26th. Some meat bargains will be offered Saturday night in order to clean up all stock. Mr. Richardson will remain in the market until Nov. 1st to collect all outstanding accounts. Those indebted to him are requested to call and settle at once.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION

Janesville and Fort Atkinson Chapters
Are Well Entertained by Mrs.
Ogden H. Fethers.

Beneath the folds of the starry banner, emblem of the principles to which they stand pledged by the priceless heritage of a heroic and patriotic ancestry, the members of the Janesville chapter and the Fort Atkinson chapter Daughters of the American Revolution met together in that pleasant social relationship of hostess and guest his afternoon. About thirty ladies of Fort Atkinson accepted the invitation extended by the local chapter and the result was a delightful afternoon of pleasure and the formation of many ties of personal friendship and close bonds of sympathy.

The pleasant gathering occurred at the cherry home of Mrs. Ogden H.
Fethers, regent of the local chapter, and she was assisted in receiving the guests by the other officers and members of the society. The parlors were handsomely draped with silk flags, there being an especially handsome arrangement of the national emblem over the mantel piece. Beneath the silken folds stood a great bouquet of red and white carnations, intertwined with blue ribbons and on either side of the flowers were handsome candelabra with shades in the national colors.

The guests arrived shortly after three o'clock and two hours were spent socially and informally. During the afternoon the company enjoyed some delightful piano solos given by Mrs. James Field in her usual artistic manner.

The music added much to the pleasure of the reception hours.
About five o'clock an elegant tea was served, there being three courses of the dainty viands. The tables were especially handsome, the floral decorations red and white roses tied with blue ribbons. At each plate a tiny flag stood aloft making a unique and very effective decoration. Each guest also found at her plate a neat souvenir bearing first this quotation from Goldsmith: "Such is the patriot's boast, where'er we roam." His first, best country is ever at home."

The cards were also inscribed with these words, which will always serve as reminders of a pleasant occasion:

"Reception and tea given by the Janesville chapter D. A. R. in honor of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Tippett and Presiding Elder E. S. McChesney and wife. The reception will be strictly an informal affair with no set program. There will be music by the Sunday school orchestra and possibly some instrumental solos. Light refreshments will be served and all members and friends of the church are cordially invited to assist the Epworth League in extending a hearty welcome to the church's new pastor and presiding elder and their wives."

Attention Comrades

All comrades of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R., are requested to attend the funeral of our late Comrade Clark Popple tomorrow. The post will assemble at the end of the Oak Hill cemetery line at 3:45 p.m. and escort the remains to the grave. All old soldiers are requested to join with us.

By order of W. J. McIntyre, Post Com., J. G. Wray, Post Adj't.

NEWS OF A PERSONAL NATURE

J. M. Whitley of DePere is in the city.

F. S. Winslow is home from a business trip to Columbus, Wis.

Charles Sloan is home from a four weeks' visit in Madison.

Hon. O. H. Fethers went to Lake
Koshkonong this afternoon.

Mrs. Treat of Monroe is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Burnham.

J. G. DeLong, who has been in this city visiting friends for several days on his way home from Lake Kosh-konong, left his morning for Edgerton and Stoughton. From there he will go directly to Chicago.

Mrs. Dora Conner, niece of G. C.
Fritz, arrived here last Tuesday from New York City to remain with her uncle, Miss Conner has been first cook for Mrs. Wheeler Wilcox for the past four years. Her daughter is now in Miss Wilcox's employ.

Janesville visitors were registered at the Buffalo exposition yesterday as follows: M. P. and H. Richardson, F. P. Welch and wife, E. E. Burdick,
Eleanor P. Wheeler, E. C. Tarrant,
E. W. Kemmerer and wife, C. J. Rice and wife.

A bright and hearty welcome awaits the ladies in the parlor where Mrs. Burnham was assisted in receiving by her aunt, Mrs. J. B.

Treat of Monroe, who is so well known in this city that but few introductions were required. The pleasure of meeting Mrs. Treat gave an added charm to the afternoon.

While the company was a small one it was none the less enjoyable and everything which hospitality could prompt had been done for the comfort and pleasure of the guests. An abundance of choice cut flowers beautified the spacious rooms. Graceful bouquets of pink carnations were in the reception hall, dainty pink and cream roses graced one parlor and in the other American Beauty roses held their great, fragrant blossoms proudly erect on long stems of glossy foliage.
The dining room was all in red, beautiful red roses on the buffet board matching perfectly the rich red shades on the candelabra which adorned the tables.

The afternoon was very pleasantly spent in playing six-handed cards, the cards seeming to possess a special charm for the occasion. At five o'clock the cards were removed and a delicious luncheon was prettily served in three courses. Mrs. Burnham was assisted by Mesdames Kavelege, J. B. Dearborn, Arthur Sterick-er and H. A. Baker.

Changes in City Hall

The city hall building committee of the common council held a meeting this morning at 11 o'clock and made some important changes which will result in valuable improvements on the new building.

It was decided to substitute a handsome stone cornice in place of the galvanized iron one called for in the plans. It was also voted to use copper gutters instead of tin.

The Y. M. C. A. entertainment
course opens Tuesday night, Oct. 29, with the Parker Concert Company.
Remember the limit of season tickets is 550 over 150 less than last year and every season ticket holder is guaranteed a reserved seat in the main auditorium.

SCHLEY ON THE SEA FIGHT

Story of American Victory in Battle of Santiago.

DETAILS BROOKLYN'S WORK.

The Admiral in the Center of the Storm of Shot and Shell During the Conflict with Spanish—Court Members Attentive.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—Admiral Schley told the story of the battle of Santiago before the naval court of inquiry. More vivid and fuller in detail than the accounts of the captains under him, his story had the advantage of being told from the wider point of the commanding officer, and it was a tale which will long be read and ranked high among the battle stories of victorious admirals. It was listened to in strained silence by a thousand men and women, just as many as could be packed together, sitting and standing, in the big, bare hall in which the court is sitting. Comparatively few could make out much of what he was saying, but from high on the rude elevator, machinery in the hall and from the window ledges and from the tops of tables a thousand pairs of eyes watched him greedily and strove to fix the scene among memory's treasures. Through it all, however, there was only once any sign of applause, and it was quickly suppressed. Admiral Dewey, doubtless with recollections of Manila bay and his own great fight pressing on his mind, leaned forward and watched the witness, who sat with his hand to his face, his legs crossed and his body leaning well back in his chair—his favorite attitude. The two other admirals of the court were equally attentive.

Texas Never in Any Danger.

Rear Admiral Schley testified that the Brooklyn did not cross the bow of the Texas, that the distance between the two ships was never closer than 600 yards, that there never was any danger of the two vessels colliding, and that the loop was absolutely necessary to prevent sacrificing the Brooklyn, as, if that ship had turned toward the Spaniards instead of away from them the Brooklyn would have been in dangerous proximity to the Spanish torpedo boats.

Turn Made to Save the Vessel.

Schley turned away from the Spaniards, he said, because it was useless to sacrifice the Brooklyn, because so much depended on that ship on the day of the battle, and in turning away he did what he believed was for the good of the country, sinking individual considerations on this occasion. There was a distinct movement on the part of the Maria Teresa and the Viscaya, he said, to ram the Brooklyn, one of the Spanish ships being less than 1,100 yards from Schley's flagship. So positive was Schley that the Spaniards were going to ram the Brooklyn that he called out to Captain Cook, "Look out, Cook, they are going to ram you." Captain Cook was under the same impression, as he had already given the order to turn the helm to port. In making the turn which Schley said was absolutely necessary, he said that the Brooklyn was never more than 600 yards to seaward, and that during the turn the helm was always hard aport and was not eased, but the turn was made in the shortest possible time.

Tells of Retrograde Movement.

Taking up the retrograde movement, Rear Admiral Schley explained that the Merrimac had broken down, was absolutely unmanageable, and was incapable of turning a propeller. They went further westward than Schley intended, as they had difficulty in making the Yale, which was towing the Merrimac, understand the arduous signal. The Merrimac and Texas both sprung a leak, and this contributed to the difficulties. The physician on board the Texas recommended that coaling operations be suspended, as owing to the intense heat the men were becoming exhausted. The retrograde movement was made with a view to equalizing the coal of the fleet so as to be in a better position when they met the enemy. Schley had been given what was supposed to be authentic information that the Spanish fleet was not in Santiago, and he therefore thought that the proper movement was to go west, and not eastward, as that would bring him nearer to the military base at Havana.

Blockade Declared Effective.

The Rear Admiral then took up the blockade and he said it had been demonstrated that it was effective, as it was successful in preventing the entrance of any vessel as well as the escape of the enemy. It was always possible for him to see the shore line, and he said the distance and half of the harbor was much nearer than has been testified to by officers, and that the same is true regarding the distance from shore.

Not Excited or Seeking Cover.

Once on board, he had, he said, engaged in a conversation with Captain (now Rear Admiral) Higginson. "I was not excited," he went on, "nor nervous, for I need not have undertaken the reconnoissance if I had not desired to do so. I had some regard for those standing on the turrets, thinking they were exposing themselves to danger from shock, which was unnecessary to them, though I was differently circumstanced, and I so expressed myself. Commander Potts is entirely in error in saying that I took advantage of cover. That I did not do, for I was not concerned about myself."

Witness Hoarse at End of Day. When Rear Admiral Schley terminated his testimony for the day it was within twenty minutes of the usual adjournment time. The Rear Admiral complained of an irritation in his throat, due to the prolonged use of his voice, and the court agreed to an adjournment for his relief. Indeed, Admiral Dewey had previously noticed the condition of the witness and had indicated a willingness to excuse him for the day.

The court adjourned until Monday morning at 11 a. m.

Mr. Lemley Objects.

Schley explained the bombardment of the Colon, which has been called weak and restless, as a reconnaissance to develop the land fortifications. Without betraying any feeling whatever, Schley denied the story told by Lieutenant Potts that the admiral was scared during this attack and hid behind the conning tower.

"Mr. Potts is in error," said Schley, deliberately. "I was under no excitement, nor was I worried, for there was no occasion for worry at that range. I called to one man to leave the exposed position he occupied, as he was a newspaper man and was not paid for getting in danger. I felt it my duty to take risks, but I did not want others to do so when not necessary."

Judge Advocate Lemley interrupted the admiral, claiming that he was giving arguments, not testimony.

"This witness has no more right to state opinions and arguments than has any other witness," said Lemley, crossly. "I object to it."

General Rayner insisted that as the applicant in the case Admiral Schley had the right to give reasons for his actions. The court told Schley to go on.

Schley Accepts Invitation.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley has accepted the invitation of the Hamilton club to be present at a reception and banquet to be given in his honor.

MEN SKIP WITH $200,000.

Moses and Isaac Selz, Baltimore Merchants, Defraud Banks and Firms.

Baltimore, Oct. 26.—Moses and Isaac Selz, leading merchants, and connected by blood and marriage with several wealthy families of Baltimore and New York, have disappeared, taking with them about $200,000. The brothers, it is charged in legal proceedings here, swindled every one, from servants to banks, including relatives and friends, and, to crown their acts, deserted their families. They have been declared absconding debtors by the courts, and their property has been seized. The men composed the firm of Selz Brothers, petticoat manufacturers. No one knows what has become of the brothers, but developments show that they took advantage of the universal confidence in them to rake in money from all directions and decamp. Most of the firms and banks in the dry goods district were caught, it is alleged. The Selzes secured some of the money, it is charged, on accommodation notes, some by forging the signatures of reliable firms to notes which they endorsed, and all of the money was gathered in within the past few months.

Laughter Causes Man's Death.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 26.—Frederick D. Sargent, a prominent citizen of St. Paul, expired almost instantly while attending a performance at the Grand Theater. Something ludicrous caused him to laugh and suddenly he lurched forward with a groan. He was dead before help reached him. The autopsy showed that the violent effort of laughter had ruptured a large blood vessel leading to the heart, the hemorrhage completely filling the lungs. Physicians said it was one of the most peculiar cases they ever attended. Sargent owned restaurants in a half dozen cities and was quite wealthy.

Says Shamrock Is Better Boat.

Glasgow, Oct. 26.—George L. Watson, the designer of Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock II, has arrived here. Mr. Watson, when asked concerning the races, declared that Shamrock was "dead unlucky" and was beaten by an inferior boat. The designer denies that the British boat leaked. Mr. Watson said he would not design any more ninety-footers and recommended that a smaller boat be used hereafter in the international races. It is rumored here that Sir Thomas Lipton will challenge for the America's cup in 1902 with Shamrock III.

Ayub Khan Has Escaped.

Calcutta, Oct. 26.—Ayub Khan, the claimant to the throne of Afghanistan, has escaped surveillance at Rawalpindi. Relays of horses had been provided for him by his Afghan partisans all the way to the frontier. The British officer who was responsible for him had committed suicide. Serious complications are feared. Lord Curzon, viceroy of India, has offered to Amer Habibullah the assistance of an army, but this help has been declined. The Amer has asked, however, that 200 guns be sent to him.

SANE WOMAN IN ASYLUM

Fifteen Years Imprisoned, She Now Gains Liberty.

STRANGE CASE IN NEW YORK.

Mary Lake, Since 1886 Locked Up in Institution for the Feeble Minded, Is Discovered Mentally Sound—Probably Ever Had Full Faculties.

New York, Oct. 26.—Fifteen years in an institution for the feeble-minded, while not only not insane but not even weak minded, has apparently been the lot of Mary Lake, now an inmate of the Richmond Borough Almshouse, but about to be set at liberty. Commissioner of Charities James Feeney of Richmond borough is largely responsible for justice being done to the girl even now. The young woman is a daughter of George Lake of New Dorp, Lake, on Dec. 5, 1883, was sentenced for a serious offense to ten years in state's prison. Lake's children were committed to the county almshouse, and the records show that on Sept. 10, 1886, Mary, 12 years old, was committed to the State Institution for Feeble Minded Children at Syracuse. She remained at that institution until she became of age, on Jan. 4, 1896, when she was transferred to the New York Custodian Asylum for Feeble Minded Women at Newark, N. Y.

Reported Insane Last Month.

Commissioner Feeney received a letter from C. W. Winshear, the superintendent of that institution, on Sept. 19 last, stating that Mary Lake had become insane and demanding that she be removed. The commissioner found that she must be brought back to this county and proceedings taken to have her legally declared insane before she could be committed to an insane asylum.

Some correspondence ensued between Commissioner Feeney and Superintendent Winshear, and under date of Oct. 1 the latter sent a certificate made by the attending physician at the institution, which follows:

"Mary Lake has had a number of attacks of excitement, but none so severe as the present attack, nor did they last as long. Has been much worse the last two weeks. I have no doubt of her insanity."

No. 12 LONDON.

Found Bright and Intelligent. Then the commissioner sent Superintendent Pierce with a nurse and provided with straightjacket and other paraphernalia to bring the insane girl to the county home. The superintendent was surprised to have placed in his custody an attractive looking young woman, entirely doile, different, but well educated, bright and intelligent. Miss Lake, when seen at the almshouse, talked freely of her life in the institutions, and tells stories of ill-treatment at the hands of some of the assistants at the Newark institution. She says there are others confined in the institution who are sound minded and who desire to be discharged. Of the Lake children, one son has been lost sight of, another is in an institution for the blind in Brooklyn, and one daughter was recently happily married.

A Baby's Birth

is very much like the blossoming of a flower. Its beauty and perfection depends entirely upon the care bestowed upon its parent. Expectant mothers should have the tenderest care. They should be spared all worry and anxiety. They should eat plenty of good nourishing food and take gentle exercises. This will go a long way toward preserving their health and their beauty as well as that of the little one to come. But to be absolutely sure of a short and painless labor they should use Allimony of $30,000 for a Woman. Zanesville, O., Oct. 26.—A divorce was granted to Mrs. Ella Sturtevant from H. H. Sturtevant, and alimony awarded and paid in the sum of $30,000. Mr. Sturtevant is Zanesville's most prominent merchant, and previous to their domestic difficulties the couple moved in the best society in the city. The decree was granted on the ground of neglect.

C. K. G. Billings Buys Captain.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 26.—Charles Marvin of Lexington has sold to C. K. G. Billings of Chicago the trotting gelding Captain, 2:09, for $6,000. Captain is by Electric Bell, dam Una Lee, and has won about $10,000 on the circuit this season, including the Walnut Hill Cup here last week.

Andrade to Fight Castro.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Oct. 26.—Ex-President Andrade, whose government was overthrown by Gen. Castro, sailed to join the expedition against the Castro government of Venezuela. Reports from that country represent the condition of affairs as very grave.

Japan Loan Goes Begging.

Yokohama, Oct. 26.—The attempt to dispose abroad of bonds of 50,000,000 yen has failed. This, it is expected, will seriously affect the position of the cabinet.

Dies on His Child's Grave.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—John Johnson was found dead on the grave of his only child, who died two months ago. He had shot himself with a revolver.

FURROWS ON THE FARM.

Pork, potatoes, bread and fruit form a large part of the bill of fare of most farmers. It is perfectly right and proper that these should be found in abundance since all of them are produced on the farm. It has just occurred to an observer in economics that all of these articles, save bread, are very high this year, and if economy is to be observed in all its entirety, mutton could well displace the pork. Mutton is more wholesome than pork and it is not so high priced and on many farms are found sheep that are never slaughtered for use. Just what could take the place of potatoes this scholar in economics does not relate, and if he has found a substitute for the fruit he has failed to name that. In the meantime the average farmer will have his pork, potatoes, bread and fruit.

An old potato raiser is authority for the plan of sowing millet seed in the potato field the last time they are cultivated. He claims that it comes up and protects the potatoes from the hot weather which does a great deal of injury to potatoes. It has never been tried on this farm, but the plan does not look altogether unreasonable. It does not require much moisture to produce millet and if there is anything to be gained by the shelter it gives, that may be well. It is claimed that this man now has a good crop of potatoes protected in this manner. In order to dig a crop of this kind it would be necessary to mow all the tops and the millet, rake them up and cart them away before digging. This may make extra work, but if extra yield can be obtained to compensate for it there may be no loss. A trial might be advisable before engaging in it very largely.

A newspaper states that Jacob was the first hired man and that he had to work seven years for a girl. His employer palmed the wrong girl onto him on account of technically in the contract and Jacob had to work another seven years for the girl he did want. Now this man is not versed in sacred history or he would have known that Jacob's grandfather, Abraham, sent his hired man to kill a calf when the angels of God visited him at one time. At another time Jacob's father, Isaac, accompanied his father, Abraham, and two hired men to a place where Isaac was to have been offered up as a test of Abraham's faith. Some newspaper men do not read the scriptures close enough.

The farmer who is raising hay and grain for the market, selling off all he raises, is surely selling his farm in small bits, or the fertility of the farm, which is the same thing. Rob a farm of its fertility and it has but little value left. We have in mind a farmer who has been selling his farm in just that way. The price offered for the farm now is only $30 per acre and it would have sold once for $60. When men go to buy farms they wish to know something of its ability to grow good crops. Farm with stock and retain some of the fertility.

English sparrows do not like the bearded wheat as well as the smooth. In some localities they have learned to prey on wheat and where they are found in large numbers the less is no small matter.

The man who does not appreciate the value of the manure pile will never succeed as a grain grower. He may "engage in farmin'," but he is engaged in a business that will never pan out. The man who is above riding on a load of manure will never get above anything else.

The scarcity and high price of corn will preclude its being wasted by feeding hogs in the mud. It would be better to make some sort of feeding floor rather than to feed corn in

WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW.

It is never safe to judge by appearance; who, from looking at a portrait of Cupid would ever think of attributing to him the marvelous executive ability with which he is customarily credited?

Now just imagine if the truth about everything were known by everybody wouldn't this be an uncomfortable world for the most of us to live in?

If only men would do all that women think they ought to do, Eden would be regained.

FIVE KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Disaster Occurs in the Buttonwood Mine Near Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 26.—A terrible explosion of gas occurred in the Buttonwood mine of the Parrish Coal Company, situated one mile south of this city, late in the afternoon which caused the death of five men and the injury of nine others. The killed are Ebenezer Williams, first assistant foreman; Comer Williams, second assistant foreman; Thomas Guest, company hand; Thomas Price, tracklayer; W. S. Phillips, Inspector. Directly after the explosion occurred a number of rescuers at the risk of their lives entered the mine, filled with dangerous afterdamp, and brought out the bodies of the dead and injured. So far it is believed the explosion was caused by the carelessness of one of the foreign laborers, who was injured. He opened his safety lamp while at work in his chamber.

Raised by Engine Explosion.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—Wabash locomotive 710, hauling a train of freight cars, exploded early this morning two miles north of Boddy. Thomas Evergreen, East St. Louis, and Thomas Holland, brakeman, Clayton, Ill., were killed, their bodies being found under the locomotive.

Engineer F. M. Donnelly of Decatur was injured, as was also George Anthony, a tramp, who was riding on the car next the engine, who also had his wooden leg blown off. The engine and six cars were destroyed and 150 feet of track was torn up.

Pan-Americans Making Plans.

City of Mexico, Oct. 26.—At the afternoon's session of the Pan-American congress, on motion of Volney W. Foster, United States delegate, a committee on committees was appointed, consisting of Mr. Davis, United States delegate; Duarte Peralta, for Brazil, Lazo Arriaga for Guatemala, Mr. Corra for Nicaragua, Mr. Diaz for Paraguay, Mr. Cuestas for Uruguay and Martinez Silva for Colombia. This committee will appoint others to report on given points and by-laws. It was decided to hold three weekly sessions—Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 10 a. m. until 1 p. m., with the privilege of holding such extra sessions as business requires.

Four Wreck Victims Dead.

Ottumwa, Iowa, Oct. 26.—Four of the persons injured in the Burlington wreck at Exline have died. They were John Silverwright of Kansas City, James Mace, Unionville, Mo.; Wyman Marion, Lancaster, Mo., and Mrs. M. Fresland, Browning, Mo. Two others, Conductor J. A. Scovorn and Miss Sophia Patterson, are momentarily expected to die. The thirty others hurt when being fed, if wheat, rye or barley are fed, they should be ground and fed in connection with some other grain or cut feed.

In the winter time, try a little lard on the hands of the milker, or some vaseline, and see what a difference it will make in the condition of the cow's teats. They will never crack open and become sore.

It is the same old thing told in a new way by a man who has good use of language and one who can "blow his own horn" to perfection. The beet sugar business has been investigated by farmers and a large majority of them know what they think of it and they know why they think it.

Coating mittens with tar does not improve them any for husking. It is far better to be able to wear out two or three pairs of cotton flannel mittens without the tar than to make one pair last an equivalent time with it.

For some time it has been feared that trusts would run into the ground. Some of them have succeeded. The plow trust, for instance. The flour trust got stuck, the iron trust was nailed, the lumber trust piled up, and the salt trust got into the soup.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 26.—The announced policy of the Amalgamated Copper company to curtail production in order to keep the price of copper up to 17 cents is now in force. Both the Anaconda and the Boston and Montana mines and smelters have been closed, but it is said the suspension will be only temporary. Fully 8,000 men are out of employment.

Need Not Hop Twelve Feet.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The civil service commission has notified the postmaster general that it had modified its regulations in accordance with his request to waive certain physical requirements of female applicants for positions as postoffice clerks, including that making them hop on one foot for a distance of twelve feet.

A FITTING TRIBUTE

A Citizen of Janesville Pays a Well-Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respected citizen, adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before:

Mr. E. Dillenbeck, of 126 Milton Ave retired farmer, says: "My wife was troubled with kidney complaint for our five years, and complained of pains in the small of the back in the region of the kidneys. The symptoms all indicated that the kidneys were deranged, and the doctors who treated her said that those organs caused the trouble. As she did not get any better we thought Doan's Kidney Pills might give her relief, and procuring them at the Peoples drug store, I had her use the remedy. It did for her all that could be expected. We can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and you can use our name as saying what has been stated above."

For sale by all dealers. Foster-Millburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for U. S. Also on sale at King's Pharmacy.

the mud and waste it. The cost of the floor will be saved in a very short time over the old method. It need not be chargeable to one year, however, since it will answer the purpose for a number of years and will be just as much appreciated by the hogs, when prices are down as when prices prevail for corn. In addition to a feeding floor the hogs should have a warm, dry place in which to sleep.

Bad odors will find the butter if given half a chance. This suggests a clean barn and no smoking allowed where milk is exposed to it. Going only half way in the dairying business means meeting disaster.

The proper way to cook a potato is to boil it with its "jacket" on. All will not agree with this idea, but that does not interfere with the fact.

When cooked in this way the salts are not lost in the tuber. An excellent way to cook a potato is to bake it; the next is to cook it with mutton or some other kind of boiled meat that is simmered a long time. Owing to the high price of potatoes one wants to know the way to get the most out of them.

Don't condemn the helper if her milk is not as rich in butter fat as desired. Remember that some of the feed consumed must be used to make growth. Test her milk a little later and note results.

In the winter time apple butter, peach butter and pear butter make fine spreads for the bread. Now is the time to look after the supply that is to make the average boy glad later on. Some men are made glad by a good supply of spread for the bread and butter.

A feed grinder can be made to return most excellent results this year. All kind of inferior grain that is not merchantable can be utilized in a ground state this year as never before. Ground feed with cut hay or straw can be made to pay this year if it ever does. Ground feed does not necessarily mean that all the feed should be thrown on the ground when being fed. If wheat, rye or barley are fed, they should be ground and fed in connection with some other ground or cut feed.

law remained otherwise unchanged. See Senate Journal, May 2, 1901, pp. 901-905.

"In addition to this report the matter was fully discussed in oral argument on the floor of the senate, but the senate refused to pass the bill or otherwise relieve the situation and soon after the senate bill had been killed the duplicate assembly bill was withdrawn.

"From the foregoing it can readily be seen that the entire responsibility for this increase in the one mill tax rests upon the legislature.

ROOSEVELT ARTICLE REVIEWED

President's Views on New York Politics

Discussed by London Press.

New York, Oct. 26.—The Tribune's London correspondent explains the nature of President Roosevelt's article in the Fortnightly Review favoring reform in the city of New York in the following cable:

"The views of the president's civil policy which the English monthly presents are scanned for some indication of the leading ideas which may guide the conduct of affairs at Washington during the next three years. The president says 'little of Tammany, but he points out that productive fields are left untilled by the apathy of Republicans. Mr. Roosevelt urges on his fellow citizens duty of giving practical effect to the principles of brotherhood by frequent communion with the poorer members of the party. The Chronicle, which comments on the article, compares the social problems of New York and London in the political element. The Chronicle approves of the president's remark that reformers are in continual danger of slipping into a mass of well-meaning people who in their advocacy of the impracticable do more harm than good."

WEDDING PARTY POISONED.

Doctors Summoned to Attend Ninety Persons Near Bath, N. Y.

Bath, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Physicians of this place have been telephoned to hurry as fast as possible to Cass Corner, Campbell, Creek, Buck Settlement and South Howard, all of which places are hamlets within a short distance of Bath. The aid of the doctors was needed to attend about ninety people, who were suffering from symptoms of poisoning, the nature of which has not been determined. One hundred guests were at the wedding party of Clarence Carr and Miss Nellie Thomas, at the home of James M. Thomas of Cass Corner. After the party was over ninety of the guests, including the officiating clergyman, the Rev. George Scherer, were prostrated. It is said that the cases, while serious, will not of necessity prove fatal.

Colombian Rebels Active
New York, Oct. 26.—According to the Herald, advices have been received in this city from Colombia to the effect that the revolutionists have taken the town of Tumaco, on the Pacific coast, near the Ecuadorian frontier, and are now marching toward Guapi, which is near Buenaventura.

The cablegrams also say that yellow fever is epidemic in Buenaventura.

Some General Ideas in Pickling.

Our grandmothers had nothing for making their pickles in but brass or copper. If one has to use such kettles the utmost cleanliness should be observed or the action on such metals creates a poison. They ought to be polished until they can be used as a mirror. But never use brass, tin or copper unless necessary. If you have to purchase get porcelain or granite ware. These wares are easy to clean and absolutely safe. Use the best cider or wine vinegar. Never boil it over seven minutes or it loses its strength. Put pickles in glass or stone jars and see that the jars are perfectly clean. See that pickles are always well covered with the vinegar, or they will soften and become covered with a whitish substance. Watch your pickles and if they show symptoms of not keeping, pour away the vinegar and cover them with fresh vinegar and spices brought to the boil. Tie ground spices up in small muslin bags. Always put a bit or two of horseradish into the top of the pickles of each jar; it helps to keep away the cloudy effect. Seal pickles as carefully as fruit, and when a few have been used close the jar as tightly again.

Where Greek Is Not Spoken.
A very curious occurrence is reported from a village only twelve miles away from Athens, writes a correspondent. A schoolmistress who was recently appointed to the village of Salesi, on assuming her duties, discovered that her pupils could not understand a single word of Greek, which was also a foreign language to their parents. The one language they spoke was Albanian. She immediately telegraphed how matters stood to the ministry, who sent an interpreter to her rescue. It is a common thing for the villagers of the Greek mainland to employ Albanian as their chief language, but this is the first and only instance where the Greek language is not spoken or understood at all in a place so near the capital.
